Let The Ads. Help You Select Your Presents

THANKSGIVING has come and gone again—and now for Christmas! You realize what this means, of course: That you will have to keep both your eyes and ears open every day, now, to pick up possible suggestions for gifts. One often hears in ordinary conversation a word or two that suggests something ideal for a present, but much more often are such suggestions found in reading—especially the advertisements. The advertising columns of The Sentinel from now until December 25th will contain scores of such suggestions. To neglect reading them every week may mean to overlook the very thing that will not come to your mind otherwise. Our advertisers this week include:

Easley News Notes

Easley Progress. Mrs. Minerva Burgess, wife of the late William Burgess, died on the morning of Nov. 18 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mollie Sarant, at Glenwood mill, from old age, being 76 years old at the time of her death. She is survived by six children, all grown. Mr. Andrew Burgess of Easley is a son. The remains were carried to Piedmont, her former home, Friday and interred in the cemetery at that place. She was a good woman. Peace to her ashes.

P. V. O'Dell, who runs a small farm three miles west of Easley, planted his entire crop of cotton this year in the "Columbia Long Staple." He sold last week to the Judson mills, Greenville, sixteen bales for 17 1/2 cents per pound, aggregating more than $1,200 for the lot. Mr. O'Dell says that he made more cotton per acre than when he planted short staple, and that the cost and cultivation was about the same except that he paid more for the seed and had to haul the seed cotton to Greenville to get it ginned on a roller gin. It has been demonstrated that Pickens county produces the finest long staple cotton made in the South. The Judson mills, we understand, will operate a roller gin next year in Easley for the benefit of farmers who plant the long staple. It would seem a good policy for the farmers near Easley to plant more of this kind of cotton.

Branch Water in Good Demand

Easley Progress. A good story is being told in Easley at present. It is said that one night last week it was reported that there was a big load of blockade liquor at Mad Dog branch, about two miles north of town. Parties in town who usually deal in such stuff lost no time in repairing to the place, where they found a real nice looking man with a load of five and ten gallon kegs of what was supposed to be "good corn liquor." He had a splendid team of black horses hitched to a good wagon and seemed anxious to dispose of the whiskey, samples of which he showed to different ones, even allowing them to sample it. He would not sell less than a keg, however. To one person, his price seemed reasonable, so he was not long in disposing of the entire load at $2.25 per gallon, amounting to some $250 or $300; and, turning over the kegs to the different parties, some ten or twelve of them, he got in
